Kenmore residents get dirty at local parks

Kenmore, Wash. – Kenmore parks were swamped with more than 100 residents at the City sponsored Spring Park Clean-Up event on Saturday, April 28.

Each year, the City organizes a park clean-up in celebration of Arbor Day and Earth Day for the community to participate. This year, volunteers helped beautify Log Boom Park, Rhododendron Park, and Wallace Swamp Creek Park by picking up trash and other debris along with dispersing fresh bark around the gardens.

“We would like to thank all the volunteers who participated,” said Public Works Superintendent Ted Carlson. “With their help, residents will be able to enjoy clean and safe parks.”

Volunteers included members of the Kenmore City Council, Inglemoor High School Key Club, other community organizations and Kenmore families. At the conclusion of the event, volunteers gathered at Rhododendron Park for an appreciation barbeque.

Residents may volunteer any time during the year to pick up debris at Kenmore parks by registering with Public Works.
